MUVU
ACTIVATES YOUR SKIN

Powered by:
regenactiv[®]

The textile technology Regenactiv[®] provides the first generation of MUVU products with their protective properties of the skin. From its beginnings, this technology has been supported by many national R&D projects, until it was implemented as the first technology linked to the MUVU laboratories.

Throughout the development process, the research project of these fabrics was included within the Technological Research and Development Programme 2008 and 2009. This programme was promoted by the Institute for Small and Medium Sized Valencian Companies, with the European Funds of Regional Development, reaffirming the innovative nature of the project and the Regenactiv[®] technology aims.

In this sense, the incorporation of the research project within these funds is a guarantee of the procedures, the standards and the work of the different lines of action of this project.
